

FOR PRESIDENT,
JAMES A. GARFIELD,
Of Ohio.
FOR VICE PRESIDENT,
CHESTER A. ARTHUR,
Of New York.

A Negro Exodus from Kentucky to Indiana.

The Louisville Courier-Journal is excited over what it calls an exodus of negroes from Kentucky into Indiana, "to vote the Republican ticket." An Indianapolis dispatch says that many colored people are leaving Kentucky for Indiana is true; but that there is any political design in the movement is utterly false. The fact is the colored men of Kentucky are just beginning to find out that their condition in the Democratic State is almost as bad as it was before slavery was abolished, and that they can greatly better their condition by going North. There is a growing exodus movement in Kentucky, especially from Nelson and adjoining counties, and the only explanation is the fact that in Kentucky they are oppressed and deprived of all ordinary privileges of citizenship, while in Indiana and other Northern States they can find employment at fair wages and are treated like human beings.

Republican Plans for the Campaign.

It is understood that the Republican National Committee and Republican Congressional Campaign Committee will hold joint meetings in New York city on August 6th. It is also probable that the chairman of the various State committees will meet them that day, together with a large number of prominent Republicans from various States. The object of the meeting is to have a general consultation before the active work of the campaign is entered upon, and to obtain the views of representative Republicans. It is also intimated that General Garfield will be invited to visit New York city at that time, with a view of consulting the committees representing the several States. When the plan of action has been agreed upon the work of the campaign will begin at once, and be pushed forward with all the energy that the committee can command.

The New Queen of the Turf.

Captain Stone, the former owner of Vanderbilt's now famous young mare, Maud S., feels sure she could easily have beaten St. Julien's record if she had not been slowed up by let-trinket save her distance. He is confident that she can trot in 2:10, and says that by her record of 2:13 1/2 the best ever made in a race, and made by her in her second public appearance, she holds the place of the best trotter in the world.

The Enterprise says gold is beginning to flow into the United States again, and, with the large harvests that are now sure in this country and the prospective poor harvests in the great grain-consuming countries of Europe, the probabilities are that next winter will witness another influx of gold like that which brought prosperous times to the United States at the beginning of this year.

In reply to a telegram of Collector Shannon to the United States Treasury Department asking that the revenue cutter Richard Rush be sent to Suva Island to rescue the Captain, his wife and a portion of the crew of the abandoned ship Mathilde, who are supposed to have reached the island, the Department declines, but has referred the matter to the Secretary of the Navy.

Every Republican voter and every Republican newspaper in the country is satisfied with the nomination of Garfield. He is a man of the people, and will receive a support that will result in his election to the highest and most honored seat in the world. His enemies revile him, but this is to be expected.

Senator Bruce, of Mississippi, is to take an active part in the Maine campaign, and will leave for Augusta in a few days. He will also make several speeches in Ohio and Indiana.

There are twenty letters in "Winfield Scott Hancock," in "James Abraham Garfield" and in "Chester Abalom Arthur." The next President will be the twentieth.

There are rumors on the streets of Virginia of one having been struck by the crown on the 2100 level of the Sierra Nevada.

Of Exports and Imports.

The excess of exports over imports for the twelve months ending June 30 was $167,904,359. During the year just closed both the value of imports of merchandise into and the value of exports of merchandise from the United States were larger than during any preceding year in the history of the country. This value of exports of merchandise for the year ending on June 30, 1880, exceeded the value of exports of merchandise during the preceding year about $125,000,000, or eighteen per cent, and the value of imports of merchandise during the year ending on June 30, 1880, exceeded the value of such imports during the preceding year about $220,000,000, or fifty per cent. The increase in value of imports of merchandise exceeded the increase in value of exports nearly $97,000,000. The value of imports and exports of merchandise during the fiscal year just closed exceeded in value such imports and exports during the preceding year about $349,000,000, an increase of thirty per cent. The rapid growth of the foreign commerce of the country is strikingly exhibited by the fact that the value of imports and exports of merchandise during the fiscal year just closed amounted to $1,503,679,459, being about eighty-one per cent. greater than the value of imports and exports of 1879, and nearly 119 per cent. greater than the value of imports and exports of 1860. The exports of coin and bullion during the year ending June 30, 1880, were about $7,800,000 less than during the preceding fiscal year, and the imports of coin and bullion during the year ending June 30, 1880, exceeded the imports during the preceding fiscal year about $73,700,000. During the year just closed, for the first time since 1861, the imports of coin and bullion exceeded the exports of the same.

Shocking Tragedy at Oakland.

A most shocking tragedy occurred in Oakland about 5 o'clock Monday afternoon. Edward Schroeder, exchange teller in the London and San Francisco Bank, walked into the office of Dr. Alfred Lefevre, a well known and very popular dentist, on Eighth street and Broadway, and deliberately fired two shots at his victim, the first of which entered the left side, two inches below the ribs, passed entirely through the intestines, and imbedded itself in the skin on the opposite side of the body. The ball was found and extracted by Dr. Selfridge a short time after the shooting. Dr. Lefevre survived his injury but thirty or forty minutes, when the remains were conveyed to the morgue. This tragedy has intense excitement in that usually quiet and law-abiding community, from the fact that both of the participants were highly connected socially. The slayer of Lefevre has had his position in the London and San Francisco Bank for a long time, and was greatly respected by all who knew him, both socially and in business transactions. Dr. Lefevre was one of the best known and highly respected citizens, having practiced his profession for many years. There are many wild stories all regarding the animosity of the shooting, the chief reason being that Lefevre had had criminal relations with the wife of Schroeder, but there is at present no definite proof of this assertion. The story comes from Oakland that Mrs. Schroeder on Saturday was visited at her house by Dr. Lefevre, who there administered to her an anesthetic and gave her the offense she charged him with to her husband.

How at a Meeting of the San Francisco Board of Supervisors.

A disgraceful row occurred in the San Francisco Board of Supervisors Monday evening. Stetson, member from the twelfth ward, rose to a question of privilege, and referring to the fact that Mayor Kelloch, at a recent meeting of the Board of Election Commissioners, had referred to the Board, saying that he had stopped members from stealing, etc., and that it was about time for the Board to express itself on the subject. He went on to say that during his occupancy of the Mayor's chair, Kelloch had repeatedly and knowingly uttered the grossest falsehoods regarding members of the Board, and that he, for one, would stand it no longer. Supervisor Taylor rose to speak, but Kelloch refused to recognize him and began speaking from the chair, saying that he had the same right to attack the Supervisor as the Supervisor had to attack him in the Board. [Cries arose of "Come down from the Chair if you want to speak."] "Come down on the floor or the house," Taylor has the floor," etc.] Kelloch continued, haranguing the Board amid cries for adjournment and a general uproar, during which the Board adjourned on its own responsibility, and after crowding around it had a number which for a time threatened a resort to violence, finally broke up and left the chamber.

SECRETARY THOMPSON.

His Views on the Presidential Campaign—An Official Visit to the Pacific Coast—His Outlook in Indiana and Ohio—His Regard for Garfield and Arthur—Probably New York—Perhaps One Western State—A Comparison of the Candidates.

[S. P. Alta.]

The Honorable Secretary of the Navy, E. W. Thompson, accompanied by his sons and daughters, arrived on yesterday's overland train. The Secretary after he had somewhat recovered from the fatigues of this long journey, was visited by an Alta reporter, who found him in a handsome old gentleman, with snow-white hair and a kindly voice. The reporter requested the favor of an interview on the political outlook in the East, and on one or two other points of interest, to which the Secretary replied: "I am opposed, on general principles, to being interviewed, but since you have taken the trouble to call on me I don't mind giving you my opinions on the prospects of the coming campaign."

MY VISIT TO CALIFORNIA

Is in no way connected with politics. The Mare Island Navy Yard has never been visited by a Secretary of the Navy, and being the principal station on the Pacific, and one of the most important yards in the United States, there are business interests of the service into which I wish to make a personal examination. I shall visit the yard, officially, on Monday, and will only then know how long it will be necessary for me to remain in San Francisco. My business at the island finished, my visit will be purely one of pleasure and recreation. My plans have not yet been made, but I shall certainly visit the interior. I want to see California for myself, and from what little I have seen of it, I am inclined to believe that my highest anticipations will be exceeded. As for San Francisco, to me it is a perfect marvel how, in a period of thirty years, such a city could have grown up. The bay is especially attractive, and I do not suppose there is a finer harbor in the world. I rested four days in Denver, and was much pleased with the town, the growth of which seems to have been prodigious. The citizens are of a much superior class to those usually met with in mining towns, but Denver can hardly be called a mining town, its main business is its trade in the mountains.

NOW AS TO POLITICS.

I do really think our chances of success in November are very good. In New York, in Ohio, Indiana, and everywhere I have been between Washington and here, the organization is, as far as I can see, most thorough and complete. In Indiana, the Republican party has never been as well organized as at present, and this campaign will be conducted by a better class of men—I mean, under men who are more energetic and better adapted for political management. The fight in Indiana, at being an October State, will be a very active one, but I think the Republicans have been fortunate in their choice for Governor. Mr. Porter, the nominee, a particularly able man, formerly First Controller of the Treasury Department, is already in the field. Mr. Lauder, the Democratic candidate, was a former Greenbacker, which element in Indiana is weakening every day and the Republican Greenbackers going back where they belong. I am confident that Indiana will elect a Republican Governor in October, and cast her Electoral vote for Mr. Garfield in November. Of Ohio, I am sure. I have not a particle of doubt as to the result in that State. There is a good deal of truth in there being a "Solid South"; nevertheless, I think Mr. Garfield has a very fair show of carrying Florida. It is very difficult to form any idea of the South, but I am sure that if a fair and unmanipulated vote could be cast several Southern States would go for Gen. Garfield, or, rather, several Southern States would be Republican. It would hardly be safe to count positively on any Southern State, yet a vigorous campaign will be pushed down there. Any prominent Northern Republican sent to make the campaign in the South will be treated with the greatest courtesy. Whatever may be said of their politics, the leading Southern Democrats are gentlemen; they are even chivalrous in their behavior, and especially to strangers.

THE NEW YORK CONTEST

Will be very close and exciting, it being a pivotal State, and I hardly feel myself competent to speak with certainty about that State. Of course, outside of the city, the State will go largely Republican, and our friends think the majority in the State will be sufficient to overbalance the Democratic vote in the city. The complete union of Tammany and Anti-Tammany very materially strengthens the New York Democracy. As there had been considerable talk about Mr. Arthur's unpopularity in New York City, I took pains, during my recent visit, to inform myself on the subject, and I find him to be one of the most popular of the prominent men in the city. I have, as yet, not become thoroughly posted about this State and the Pacific Coast, but I am convinced that a lively campaign will be fought, and I know that the National Committee will not neglect to send prominent Eastern speakers to this coast. I think the nomination of Garfield was a very wise selection, and our tendency to conciliate all elements of the Republican party; the combined ticket is very strong. If there exists any dissension in the ranks, I do not know where to place it.

AS TO THE TWO CANDIDATES;

Garfield and Hancock are both gentlemen, but there spheres in life may have been so different that they have developed different capacities. Hancock is a soldier by profession, and rendered most valiant service during the war; he could have done nothing else, because the Government raised and educated him for that express purpose. Garfield was a soldier from choice, because the country needed his services, and he might have remained at home without any dishonor. As soldiers there was naturally the difference between the trained soldier and the volunteer; neither ever had the planning of great military movements or the command of large armies. For haps if they had, Hancock would have exhibited more professional skill and science than Garfield, because of his military training and education, but in war for bravery, skill and perseverance in the discharge of duty, even in military movements are concerned, Garfield has shown himself the peer of Hancock. Garfield served in the army as long as his constituents allowed him to. They knowing him to be a statesman, as well as a soldier, considered his services necessary in Congress to deal with the great questions of Civil Policy and Political Government, and elected him to Congress for that purpose. He is undoubtedly a statesman of eminent ability, among the first in the country. He may be said to be, emphatically, a wise man, with all that that word implies, and there is no question of governmental policy with which he is not perfectly familiar. In all this he is the superior of Hancock, and, therefore, far more fitted to be President of the United States. Personally, he is one of the most amiable gentlemen I ever knew, of fine literary and scholarly tastes, a close student, a keen observer, and, altogether, an exceptionally learned man. Essentially a well-made man, he illustrates in his life and history the character of our popular statesman more than any man I can name. In his habits he is very domestic, and his private life is perfectly pure and spotless.

SHOOTING IN NEVADA CITY.

At a quarter past 10 o'clock Monday morning George W. Smith, ex-Sheriff of Nevada county, rushed up to T. W. Sigourney, a capitalist on Broad street in front of the National Hotel, and grasping his hand, exclaimed: "How are you, Sig?"

"How do you do?" responded the accused.

"You've commenced 'suit' against me to rob me have you?" continued Smith.

"No; I am not going to rob you."

"Well, G—d—n you, you can't rob me!" replied Smith.

As he uttered the last sentence Smith drew a revolver and fired twice at Sigourney. One of the bullets took effect in Sigourney's right shoulder and the other crashed through a window of the Eureka Stage Company's office. The wounded man turned to run away, and just as he was entering the Postoffice door Smith placed the weapon close to his back, below the right shoulder-blade, and fired a third time, the bullet going clear through the body diagonally. Sigourney staggered into the Post office, and leaning against the wall, exclaimed: "Oh, God! I am shot all over!" He was assisted into the National Hotel, where he died two minutes later.

Smith was arrested and taken to the county jail. The cause of the shooting was a suit just begun in the Superior Court by the deceased to eject Smith and his family from a house belonging to him and to recover $1,000 damages.

In a FLUME.—On Sunday evening last, about sunset, says the Carson Appeal, a number of ladies and gentlemen, visitors at Glenbrook, went to the summit at the head of the large flume. After witnessing the rapid flow of the water and great quantities of wood floating in it, one of the party suggested that none present dared take a trip down the flume. An offer of a wager was made and accepted by Witcher Harlow and Miss Belle Graham, both of San Francisco. The two foolhardy young folks jumped upon a pile of raft of wood and rapidly floated down the flume for a distance of a mile or more, when a sudden lurch caused them to lose their equilibrium and they were thrown on their faces foremost among the wildly tossed wood. A half mile from the place of the disaster they were fished out by a couple of flume watchmen badly bruised and cut up, but otherwise uninjured.

The transmute is warming to the work. Logan is making speeches in Illinois; Cameron has gone to work in Harrisburg, and is in splendid health, and will roll up a running majority in Pennsylvania, and Conkling has given General Jewell his assurance of his hearty support of Garfield, and will assist in defeating the Democrats in New York. Democrats who were planning themselves upon the supposed disaffection of this powerful trio are looking solemn, and the Hancock boom is being drowned out in the echoing cheers for Garfield and Arthur, whose election means continued peace to the Nation and increased prosperity to the country.

The Enquirer says that Garfield is a sectional candidate, and Hancock the National. This, like many other paragraphs contained in the Enquirer, is not strictly true. Both are sectional candidates, the difference being that Garfield's section is large and loyal, and Hancock's trifling and treacherable. Garfield is competent to manage both sections, and he will enter upon the discharge of this duty March 4, 1881.

Of the census reports made to the superintendent of the United States census, enough is known to safely base the present population of the Union at 43,000,000. In 1850 the population was 23,000,000, and in 1870 it stood up 39,000,000. The last decade shows an increase of 8,000,000. In the last thirty years the population has more than doubled, and the United States of today is the coming empire of the world.
